

PART 3: IS THIS WIDENING INEQUALITY A PROBLEM?

PAC CONTRIBUTIONS

The problem with money isn't partisan. There are liberal billionaires. There are conservative billionaires. So if you see someone buying a result you like, someone else can buy a result you are going to hate.

WILLIAM KOCH

CONTRIBUTION: $3 MILLION
TO: MITT ROMNEY PACS

JEFFREY KATZENBERG

CONTRIBUTION: $3.1 MILLION
TO: BARACK OBAMA PACS

KEN GRIFFIN

CONTRIBUTION: $2.58 MILLION
TO: REPUBLICAN PACS

BILL MAHER

CONTRIBUTION: $1 MILLION
TO: BARACK OBAMA PACS

SHELDON & MIRIAM ADELSON

CONTRIBUTION: $70 MILLION
TO: REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGNS

GEORGE SOROS

CONTRIBUTION: $2.5 MILLION
TO: BARACK OBAMA PACS

JULIAN ROBERTSON

CONTRIBUTION: $2.25 MILLION
TO: MITT ROMNEY PACS

AMY GOLDMAN

CONTRIBUTION: $3.4 MILLION
TO: LIBERAL PACS

JOHN RICKETTS

CONTRIBUTION: $12.8 MILLION
TO: CONSERVATIVE SUPER PACS

MICHAEL BLOOMBERG

CONTRIBUTION: $3.6 MILLION
TO: LIBERAL PACS

The problem of widening income inequality is structural. There are various solutions out there that depend on your political persuasion, but there is no doubt that economic inequality is a major challenge of our time.